

Gerald Harding is forty-three-years old, twice divorced, and severely depressed. An ad man for a major concern in Pittsburgh, he worries he's on the brink of professional failure. Then his boss assigns him to a multi-million-dollar account in Amsterdam. Gerald suddenly finds himself in the heart of a foreign city, captivated by the lights and excitement. But soon he's forced to face his most restless demons, and all the heartache waiting on the other side. A darkly comic, almost cautionary tale, AMSTERDAM is at once hilarious and startling, drawing the reader into an exotic world in which excess, while perhaps the norm, has for its denizens sometimes devastating consequences.
