

When Mucky decides it would be better if he was a unicorn, Owl tries to help – but wouldn't a true friend like him just the way he is? Mucky is fed up with being a drab old brown horse who smells so bad that none of the other horses want to share his field. Instead, he wants to be a unicorn with a gleaming white coat and a long horn that the other horses admire. So Owl comes up with a plan to make Mucky's wishes come true, and enlists the help of the other animals. They use a shell from the beach for a horn and milk from the cows to paint him. He wakes up thinking he's turned into a unicorn, but it soon rains and everything gets washed away. Mucky then realizes he doesn't need to be a unicorn to have great friends who will notice him.
