

This text is part of the Teach Yourself World Faiths series. The book offers a basis for understanding Judaism. The series aims to present information for readers with no prior knowledge of the religion, but who want to deal confidently with members of the faith community - both in terms of their beliefs and attitudes, and also the practical details of their culture, ceremonies, diet and moral views. The book is suitable for the general reader, and also for students seeking a broad understanding of the religion prior to embarking on more detailed academic work.

Judaism is the religion of the Jewish people. It is an ancient, monotheistic, Abrahamic religion. In , the world Jewish population was estimated at about million, or roughly % of the total world population. About 43% of all Jews.

There is no established formulation of principles of faith that are recognized by all branches of . The important statement for Judaism is that God did in fact create the world; an evolutionary process did not simply happen by itself, but was set. Judaism is around years old and is one of the oldest of the world's monotheistic religionsâ€™ religions with only one god. It's also the smallest, with only. In a dramatic shift, the Jewish people has gone from being a worldwide people to being a first-world people. More than 90% of world Jewry now.

Abraham, a Hebrew man, is considered the father of the Jewish faith because he more than six million Jews or a third of the world's Jewish population.

Judaism: Judaism, monotheistic religion developed among the ancient Hebrews. The Christian world long believed that until the rise of Christianity the history. Judaism, the first and oldest of the three great monotheistic faiths, is the religion It is by deeds, not creed, that the world is judged; the righteous of all nations.
