

Welcome to Jenna's Cove, picturesque harbor-side village in Maine, where the unusual is an everyday occurrence, and love that is just a little different, is always in the air. Samantha Savage, romance writer, has found solace in Jenna's Cove, and it is one of life's ironies that Sam, the town's most romantically-minded citizen is terrified by the mere thought of a post-divorce fling. Sam understands that "paper men" are safer, so when her best friend Jilly gives her a subscription to Love-Match.com, Sam is naturally reluctant. At Jilly's urging, Sam fills out the profile, and before she knows it, she meets Thomas Tanner, an intelligent and romantic man who seems too good to be true. Sam falls hard for Thomas, and within a few short weeks, he talks her out of her bank account. Furious, and feeling foolish, Sam turns Tanner into the FBI for running a romance scam. But the episode is far from over. In Miami, the real Thomas Tanner has just found out that his face and identity has been stolen; and now he's been confronted by his old enemy FBI Agent Nathan Cuddy, who sees the whole situation as the perfect opportunity to settle a very old score. And suddenly, Thomas has the dark cloud of suspicion hanging over his head. Losing his temper, he manhandles his old "friend" and ends up taking an enforced vacation from the Miami PD. And what better destination than Jenna's Cove? Thomas is determined to meet Samantha Savage and explain that he had nothing to do with the scam that cost her her savings. Yet, Jenna's Cove is a world away from Miami, and the neurotic, lovely redhead is unlike any woman he's ever encountered, but Sam has secrets, the least of which is that she is already head over heels in love with Thomas. And though she doesn't know it, the scammer is far from done with her. Sexy, and laugh out loud funny. Warning: Contains explicit language, and sexual situations.
