

Two men set out on a simple planetary survey when tragedy strikes. Trapped on a world that is both alien and somehow eerily familiar, survival is the only thing that matters. Andrews and Levy are two young officers of the Corps. Levy is the senior officer who isn't quite sure of what exactly should be done, but is intent on making sure that they survive this strange planet. Andrews is the young hot shot pilot who is willing to do anything, including starve himself, to get things done. Strange plants. Even stranger animals. Unsure if even the water is safe to drink, they set out on a mission to survive. Through triumph and tragedy they fight to keep each other going, no matter the cost. Just when they hit their lowest point, a surprise is waiting. Will they survive, or will they fall over the edge?
