

You may have heard the statistic: According to the Zagat Survey, Houstonians eat out more often than do residents of any other major American city. And its true! Houston is a city that loves its restaurants. Now, with the August 2008 publication of The Ultimate Food Lovers Guide to Houston, brought to you by the editors and writers of My Table magazine, dining around Houston is about to become an even more delicious adventure. Capitalizing on My Tables 14 years of covering everything food in Houston and our reputation as Houstons only editorially independent magazine devoted solely to dining in Houston, this is not a traditional restaurant guidebook so much as -- as the title promises -- a food-lovers guide. Our overriding editorial guideline: Where would we send our best foodie friend? The 5x8 book -- easy to slip into a handbag or briefcase -- is divided into three chapters: Local Flavors has more than 100 bakeries, ethnic markets, farmers markets, butchers, gelato shops, fishmongers, chocolate shops, coffeehouses, tea rooms, and much more; Spirited Houston lists more than 95 wine bars, wine and spirits retailers, brewpubs, hotel bars and dives; and Restaurants & Cafes covers everything else, from fine-dining establishments to quirky ethnic eateries off the beaten path. Besides the main listings -- nearly 550 in all -- The Ultimate Food Lovers Guide to Houston features dozens of color photos, a fold-out map, sidebars and boxes with everything from a list of our favorite boiled-crawfish spots to the towns best sports bars (as chosen by Houston Dynamo star Brian Ching), from a round-up of pick-your-own orchards to the best annual food festivals, from a list of local cooking schools to a chocolatiers secret sources for chocolate-making supplies, from our favorite BYOB restaurants to five spots that serve English-style afternoon tea. The book even has a dozen recipes from Houstons best-known restaurants, including Cafe Annie, Marks American Cuisine, Brennans and Ouisies Table. In other words, this book is richer, deeper and more varied than the traditional restaurant directory-style guidebook. We dont pretend to list everything in town -- only those places that are worthy, beloved, compelling, irresistible or simply cannot be ignored.
