After that they rowed on steadily for many a weary day, till they saw a long high island, and beyond it a mountain land. And they searched till they found a harbour, and there rowed boldly in. But after awhile they stopped, and wondered; for there stood a great city on the shore, and temples and walls and gardens, and castles high in air upon the cliffs. And on either side they saw a harbour, with a narrow mouth, but wide within; and black ships without number, high and dry upon the shore. Then Ancaius, the wise helmsman, spoke, What new wonder is this? I know all isles, and harbours, and the windings of all seas; and this should be Corcyra, where a few wild goatherds dwell But whence come these new harbours, and vast works of polished stone? But Jason said, They can be no savage people. We will go in and take our chance. So they rowed into the harbour, among a thousand black-beaked ships, each larger far than Argo, toward a quay of polished stone. And they wondered at that mighty city, with its roofs of burnished brass, and long and lofty walls of marble, with strong palisades above. And the quays were full of people, merchants, and mariners, and slaves, going to and fro with merchandise among the crowd of ships. And the heroes hearts were humbled, and they looked at each other and said, We thought ourselves a gallant crew when we sailed from Iolcos by the sea: but how small we look before this city, like an ant before a hive of bees. Then the sailors hailed them roughly from the quay, What men are you?--we want no strangers here, nor pirates. We keep our business to ourselves. But Jason answered gently, with many a nattering word, and praised their city and their harbour, and their fleet of gallant ships. Surely you are the children of Poseidon, and the masters of t...
