

Fruit d'une collaboration étroite entre Shri Aurobindo et Jean Herbert, ce volume rassemble l'Isha Upanishad et le Kena Upanishad, commentés par le fondateur de l'ashram de Pondichery, ainsi que sa traduction du Mundaka Upanishad. Ces trois textes majeurs de l'hindouisme forment à la fois le complément et le prolongement des études du grand sage indien sur la Bhagavad-Gita, publiées dans cette même collection. Puissent ces réflexions montrer aux Occidentaux à la fois le but et la méthode que doivent avoir les recherches sur les textes sanskrits classiques si l'on veut les comprendre, tant dans la signification que leur donnaient leurs auteurs que dans la valeur pratique qu'ils ont aujourd'hui encore pour tous les Hindous.
