

Summary: The first snow has already fallen and covered London in white. A lone writer by the name of William is working late, when he notices a flickering light at the opposite of the street, by the neglected Winchester cemetery. He decides to investigate it further. An extract from the story: "Not responsible for my actions" she whispered slowly and stood up, tip-toe, and kissed him. He was too surprised to draw back and when he tried, she had already placed her unexpectedly strong arms around his neck and he lacked the strength to pry them away. In fact, he felt strangely helpless, like it was someone else who acted instead of him, as he kissed her back. His hands involuntarily reached her waist and pulled her closer. She, on the other hand, shredded his clothes like they were made of paper and pulled him down towards the floor with him on top of her. Keywords: Yearning, vampires, vulnerability, hunger, mild ravishment. About the author: Lady T. L. Jennings is a secretive writer who loves the Victorian era, afternoon tea, and small obedient dogs. She lives in Oxfordshire, England, and writes Victorian erotica and romance short stories with a dash of gothic mystique, usually after midnight and by candle light. She collects corsets, lovers, and books. Reviews: I loved this! Descriptive, sensual and a very pleasant read. I enjoyed it very much....Its a lovely story...Rated four stars by readers reviews.
