

Francois-Victor Hugo, fils de Victor Hugo, preparait une edition complete des oeuvres de William Shakespeare - quil venait de traduire a sa facon - et demande alors a son pere dassurer la redaction dune petite biographie en preface. Mais le patriarche ne se contente pas de quelques pages, comme il etait initialement prevu, et ecrit un veritable manifeste pour le romantisme ainsi quun magnifique plaidoyer en faveur de leducation de tous les arts et de toutes les sciences, nouvelles comme anciennes, afin douvrir les esprits. Si la biographie de William Shakespeare est le fil rouge de ce texte, sa portee va donc bien au-dela, ce qui a fait de ce livre un des classiques de la bibliographie de Victor Hugo.
